DIPLOMATS ANGRY AT GEN. CARRANZA WANT 'SHOW DOWN

Colleagues of Mediators Ready to Advise That Entire Enterprise Be Abandoned.

MAY ASK BRYAN TO FORCE UNOFFICIAL CO-OPERATION

No Confirmation Here of Report That Rebel Envoys Are on Way to Mexico City.

Despite the chorus of official denials that the Mexican mediators are "being used" and hoodwinked by Carranza and his followers, resentment against the constitutionalist chieftain is growing in Latin-American diplomatic circles here. The declaration by Carranga that as first chief of the revolution he "must consult" the men who elected him before consenting to unofficial conferhas added to the suspicion there that (arranga is simply "stalling" for time. If the mediators ask the advice of their colleagues in this city it is cerain they will be urged to abandon the entire enterprise. At no time, it is pointed cut, has Carranza shown the slightest intention of aiding mediation

Explanations Not Accepted.

The assurances of the State Department, and sources closest to the Administration, that all of his hostile declarations are for "home consumption." are not accepted in the South American colony as longer convincing. it is expected that within the next day or two the mediators will emphatically demand from the United States that it keep its promises and obtain unofficial co-operation of the Carranzis as. Secretary Bryan has assured Minister Naon that this participation will come this week. The assurance rollowed definite promises from Charles
A. Douglas, attorney for the rebeis, that Carranza would accept the plan.
This will force a show down. If Bryan for the Administration cannot make good, then the mediators are expected

The connection between Pani and the American oil interests was revealed in a report printed today by the New York Herald. The newspaper prints what purports to be correspondence between Henry C. Pierce, the oil magnate, and Sherbourne G. Hopkins, confidential advisor in Washington to the Carranzistas.

From other sources it - known that Villa mistrusted Carranza's appointees to posts having to do with railroads He had been experiencing difficulty in obtaining arms and amountition, and be-lieved if Peni displaced Calzado, his military operations might be hampered. He flatly refused to recognize Car-ranza's authority to direct the railways. Subsequent appointments, in other fields, served to widen the breach first created by this break over rail-

The scheme of American all interests was to regain control of the Mexican central railway, which would transport the oil out of Mexica. The alleged correspondence made public here shown all negotiations were conducted with representatives of Carranza. Villa was made apparent that if ignored. It was made apparent that is any alleged agreement by Carranz-concerning control of railroads was thwarted by Villa, the rebel "first chief" would lose heavily in support by certain interests.
